President's Message

To our JHS members and to all of our community,

Estelle Kafer and our board have been strengthening our marketing outreach, board operation and structure, while developing new programs. We recognize the vital need to reach out to existing members who seasonally leave our state and to younger generations working and living outside of Connecticut. We need a professional effort to develop and implement a social media and marketing plan to reach all of them no matter where they live. Denise Brodey has generously given her time to create more impactful and engaging marketing, both promoting events and sharing their successes.

We have formed committees that can work year-round on a wide range of issues producing concrete solutions and creative ideas. I have been thrilled to see how so many JHS board members have engaged their skills, while sharing their experiences to move JHS forward. The new Governance Committee, led by David Harris is updating bylaws, our structure and policies.

The new Program Committee, led by Lance Goldberg, experimented with a new program called "All in the Family". Thanks to David Diamond's hard work, JHS co-sponsored and collaborated with the Beth El Men's Club to plan this event. The program featured local business owners sharing the stories of how their businesses were started by their parents, the challenges they faced, their values, the importance of customer service and supporting our local Jewish organizations. I was so proud that JHS could provide them the opportunity to share those stories with our community. Howard Weiner of Woodland Auto Body, Michael Wolf of the Bloomfield Bicycle and Repair Shop and Harry Davidson of Pyne-Davidson Printers were eloquent and added humor and insights about their successes. Howard Weiner shared the story of how David Rosenthal's father at Blum Shapiro, encouraged one of their clients to pre-pay an entire year's painting services to Howard's father, therefore providing him with the needed cash flow to keep Woodland Auto Body running. It was heartwarming to hear the pride in their voices. That to me is what our community is about, people helping people directly and through the support of our Jewish organizations.

A new, second program is coming that focuses on gathering and preserving Jewish recipes, photos of cooking together, teaching videos, blogs and stories intended to connect generations to each other and to JHS, as we all love our food.

We want to thank you for your support, which allows us to preserve your most treasured memories, photos and the history of our community for YOUR FUTURE GENERATIONS.

Wishing everyone a happy Passover,

Gary R. Schwartz

Raise the Roof Film Screening

Monday, March 12, 2018, Mandell JCC, 335 Bloomfield Ave, West Hartford, CT

6:00 pm - Pre-screening Dinner Program with Filmmakers, 7:30 pm - Film

Join us for the Greater Hartford premier of the documentary Raise The Roof, directed by Yari Wolinsky, shown as part of the 22nd Mandell JCC Hartford Jewish Film Festival. Artists Rick and Laura Brown are not Jewish and not Polish, and yet they set out to rebuild Gwoździec, one of the magnificent 18th-century wooden synagogues of Poland, the last of which were destroyed by Nazis during World War II. Their vision inspires hundreds of people to join them. Using their hands, old tools and techniques, they rediscover Gwoździec's history, culture, and art. Raise the Roof follows the Browns and the Handhouse Studio team to Sanok, Poland, as they begin building the new Gwoździec roof. The crew has six weeks to hew, saw, and carve 200 freshly logged trees and assemble the structure. Working against this deadline and despite torrential downpours and exhaustion, the team must create the structure, and disassemble it again for shipping and eventual installation in Warsaw's Polin Museum.

Cost: Pre-screening Dinner Program with filmmakers: $30 per person; Film Only: $12 per person.

June 26 - July 29, 2018
Chase Family Gallery, Mandell JCC

A traveling exhibit from the National Museum of American Jewish History, Power of Protest: The Movement to Free Soviet Jews, will document one of the most successful human rights campaigns of the late 20th century. The panel exhibition showcases Americans' efforts in the late 1960s through 1990 to free refuseniks—Jews who lived in the Soviet Union and were denied the rights to live freely, practice Judaism, or leave the country due to their religion. Through text, imagery and media, the exhibit will blend compelling personal stories of American Jewish activists and the Soviet Jews who immigrated to America and impacted our society in countless ways.

On August 8, 2017, author Elizabeth Poliner spoke about her book As Close to Us As Breathing, set at Bagel Beach, Woodmont, CT. Afterwards, we enjoyed some memories from the audience and ice cream sundaes! Listen to the podcast here: <http://bit.ly/2wgNzZc>.

Many people experienced our visiting summer exhibit, From Haven to Home, which chronicled the history of American Jews. On September 13, 2017, Professor Avinoam Patt gave a lecture on the Revolution, the Constitution, and the American Jews (right), which was followed by a guided tour of the exhibit (left).

On November 2, 2017 we cohosted a panel discussion with The Emanuel Synagogue on the challenges of fair housing in Jewish West Hartford. Panelists Mary Donohue, Dr. Jack Dougherty, and Tracey Wilson explained how practices such as redlining determined where people could live. Listen to a podcast of the event at: bit.ly/2BhvZ5x.

On November 9, 2017, we took a trip down memory lane to the Catskills of Connecticut. Speaker Ken Simon talked about his childhood in Moodus near Banner Lodge, and many audience members shared their own recollections of the Jewish resorts of Connecticut.

In January 2018, teens from the FVJC-Emek Shalom JTConnect program interviewed residents of Hoffman SummerWood, asking questions about their family food stories.

It was "All in the Family" on January 23, 2018 when Howard Weiner of Woodland Auto Body, Michael Wolf of Bloomfield Bike Shop, and Harry Davidson of Pyne-Davidson Printers shared stories about their families and their family businesses at Beth El Temple.

Mandell JCC, 335 Bloomfield Ave, West Hartford

Co-sponsored by the Jewish Historical Society, Voices of Hope, The Emanuel Synagogue, Beth El Temple, Farmington Valley Jewish Congregation and Congregation Beth Israel

Baltimore journalist Susan Fisher Sullam will tell the fascinating story of her discovery of her father's role in "Task Force Fisher". As a member of General Dwight Eisenhower's staff during WWII, Lt. Commander Joel Fisher kept records detailing one of the greatest treasure hunts in history. His documents, found by his daughter after his death, chronicled how Fisher led a task force during the closing months of the war that located and recovered billions of dollars' worth of gold, silver, currency and artwork looted by the Nazis.

From the Director

Dear Members and Friends,

We are often directed to evaluate the work we do, our accomplishments and challenges. How do we measure the impact of the work we are committed to and the activities we offer? How do we know if a program or project is successful or making a difference? Obviously, we strive for increased awareness, membership and revenue. A room filled to capacity, numerous inquiries, and scholarly and community collaboration are accurate indicators.

But more rewarding is witnessing an engaged audience and the effect our programs have produced. The family that hears for the first time about a grandparent's childhood school years during a Family History project interview. Two women who connect with special memories after a presentation about Connecticut resorts in Moodus. Attendees listening to a panel's research about beloved neighborhoods that were once restricted to Jews. Learning about the struggles and accomplishments of local and familiar Jewish business owners and their generational family history.

We are starting a conversation, triggering a forgotten memory and documenting community history. We are connecting the generations and providing opportunity for thoughtful reflection and an understanding of our past and present. We should be proud our Society is committed to this unique and important responsibility!

Please join us for some wonderful programming this Spring – we have worked hard on developing very special events and look forward to your support. In addition, I am grateful to our hard working staff, Lynn and Jeanne, our Board Members who continue to donate their time and expertise, and a very dedicated group of volunteers and interns that come in weekly. Thank you to Leland and Paula Bradbard, Jeremy Schmitt and Sara Karz Reid for their work processing archival materials and cataloging our artifacts, and to Nancy Gordon for transcribing oral history interviews.

Join us for Family History Day on March 25 – Learn how to start YOUR family history conversations around the Passover table! Wishing you all a memorable Pesach,

Estelle Kafer

Does Your Company Have a Matching Gifts Program?

Many large corporations offer programs where they will match an employee's donation to an eligible nonprofit, effectively doubling or even tripling the gift. Companies such as Apple and IBM use a company called Benevity (benevity.com) as a clearinghouse for those donations, because they will transfer the donation directly to the beneficiary from both the donor and the corporation that matches the donation. The Society is registered with benevity.com to receive donations from eligible employees. Please check with your company to see if they offer matching donations.

From the Archivist

Digitization is the latest buzzword. It's easy to understand why; technology has changed the way we interact with information. Our first urge may be to digitize everything. However, this comes with invisible costs. Digitization takes time and resources, and the process can be slow and laborious. It's not feasible to digitize every item we hold. On top of that, digital files aren't foolproof! Did you know that paper, if properly stored and cared for, has a much longer shelf life than digital files? Formats change, programs become obsolete, and flash drives get damaged. So what can we do?

First, we prioritize the types of objects to digitize. Oral histories on cassette tapes are good candidates, since audio-visual material has a limited shelf life. We digitize using standard and widely used formats and back up our files so that they will be accessible over time. Yet digitization can go beyond a scanned image or document. Many of our collections have finding aids (similar to a catalog record on your local library's website) posted online at www.jhsgh.org. These documents summarize the collections and allow researchers to locate the information with a simple Google search. I have received a variety of reference requests from people who have found our Society because of these guides. A few months ago, I was contacted by a researcher in Italy researching a family displaced by the Holocaust. The daughter settled in Hartford and had left us numerous documents regarding her unfortunately unsuccessful attempts to bring her parents to America. Another researcher sought information on an award named after Althea Silverman given to musically gifted Hartford students. She found articles and an oral history in the archive that answered all her questions! If we use digitization strategically to connect people to our collections, we can increase our visibility and ensure that our materials continue to draw interest from a wide range of researchers.

We can't, of course, forget the physical items we have received recently. One item of note is a Hebrew School certificate granted by Temple Beth Israel in 1879 to Minnie (Stern) Lyon, given to us by Marjorie DiGalbo, along with a picture of her parents with President Truman. Elliott Donn continues to add to our collection of the local Jewish War Veterans post. Bob Fishman gave us a scarf from the 1987 Rally for Soviet Jews in Washington, DC. Judith Kronick brought us an assortment of items from the community, including a brochure from Fressers Restaurant. Mary Donohue helped us locate material on the Connecticut Jewish resorts, as well as other materials documenting S. Vogel Sons and Sophie Tucker.

If you have questions about research or donating material, e-mail me at jlowrey@jewishhartford.org. See you in the archives!
